Navy Member comments on draft DCID 1/19 for Security Committee consideration

1. The DCI policy and implementing guidance to be set forth in the DCID must specify clearly that only classified information concerning intelligence sources or methods is covered. Accordingly, the following changes are needed in the draft DCID:

a. Paragraph 1 - add the following new sentence at the end:
"This Directive applies only to classified information concerning intelligence sources or methods."

b. Paragraph 2, first sentence, second line - add the qualifier "classified" before the words "information requiring protection".

c. Paragraph 5, sub-paragraph (c), third line; sub-paragraph (e), second line; and sub-paragraph (f), second line - add the qualifier "classified" before the word "information" in all three places.

2. The CIA Office of Security substitute language for paragraph 4 is concurred in as written, to include deletion of the footnote.

3. A new paragraph 5 is needed to specify exceptions to the labeling requirement. The CIA Office of Security proposal, while clear in its meaning, would improperly limit the exception to Communications Intelligence material. The exception should apply to all sensitive compartmented information (SCI), which is subject to special control and labeling requirements which in and of themselves are adequate to signal to authorized recipients that higher standards of security are required in the handling and disclosure of such information. A requirement to apply the "Warning Notice" marking in addition to code word and channels indicators would be an unreasonable administrative burden providing no discernible security over and above that provided by the SCI security system. Section 9 of E.O. 11652 provides for the separate SCI security system in such a manner that SCI does not have to be subject to the "Warning Notice" requirement in Section IV.H.(4) of the NSC implementing directive. The following new paragraph 5 should be added to the draft DCID, renumbering the old paragraph 5 accordingly:

"5. Sensitive Compartmented Information¹: Existing control and labeling requirements associated with sensitive compartmented information (SCI) are considered consistent with the requirements of this Directive. SCI containing intelligence sources or methods information is therefore exempted from the labeling requirements of paragraph 4 above." The footnote should be the same as appears in DCID 1/14 for the definition of SCI.

I concur with the proposal except for the following:

- a. The use of the word "designated" in place of "designed," line 3, page 3 of draft.
- b. Footnote #2, page 4, should appear as a footnote to paragraph 1 of the draft. Recommend it read as follows: "1. This DCID refers only to classified information concerning intelligence sources or methods."
This remains the DoD position regarding the applicability of the types of information.
- c. I concur with the suggestions offered by the CIA Office in the Memo SECOM-D-164, dated 30 June 1976.

- a. Page 2, line 3: Change "designed" to "designated."

COMMENT: This corrects apparent typographical error and uses original wording of proposed legislation from which this definition was extracted.

- b. Footnote number 2, now at paragraph 5., should be inserted as footnote to paragraph 1., and amended as follows:

"¹This DCID refers only to classified information concerning intelligence sources and methods."

COMMENT: It continues to be the Department of Defense position that the proposed DCID 1/19 refers only to classified information concerning intelligence sources and methods. Insertion of footnote at paragraph 1 emphasizes this position and makes footnote integral part of proposed DCID.

- c. I concur in CIA office of Security suggested change to paragraph 4., addition of paragraph 5., and elimination of footnote on page 3 of draft.
